The NSS Council of Fr. Conceicao Rodrigues College of Engineering collaborated with the Bandra Police to organize a special volunteering event on the occasion of Republic Day 2024. The event was a significant undertaking, contributing to the success of the Republic Day parade organized by the BIRD committee at Bandstand, featuring 21 schools from diverse locations in Mumbai.

The Republic Day parade at Bandstand witnessed a remarkable turnout, with 21 schools participating from various parts of Mumbai. The event was graced by the presence of eminent personalities and retired military officers who were invited as chief guests. The grand parade showcased unity in diversity as schools displayed their patriotic fervor.

The NSS volunteers played a pivotal role in managing the event seamlessly. A subset of volunteers was entrusted with crowd management, ensuring orderliness and safety throughout the parade. Additionally, some volunteers took charge of regulating traffic to facilitate the smooth flow of the program. In light of the sprawling attendance, their efforts ensured that the participants, attendees, and VIP guests could navigate the event venue with ease, contributing to the overall success of the Republic Day celebration. During the cultural program, wherein school students showcased their talents, NSS volunteers demonstrated exceptional coordination and responsibility. To maintain an organized and secure environment, volunteers formed a human chain by holding hands, creating a barrier that prevented any unauthorized intrusion from the crowd. This strategy effectively safeguarded the cultural program, allowing the students to perform without disruption.

The NSS CRCE Republic Day volunteering event stands as a testament to the commitment and capability of our NSS volunteers. Their dedication to managing the crowd, regulating traffic, and ensuring the smooth progression of the Republic Day celebration was commendable. The collaborative effort with the Bandra Police further enhanced the overall success of the event, leaving a positive impact on all participants and attendees.
