The NSS Council of Fr. Conceicao Rodrigues College of Engineering organized the NSS camp. The main focus of Day 3 of the NSS Camp was to embark on a visit to the neighboring village and undertake a comprehensive cleaning initiative. The objective was to mitigate the risk of disease transmission within the village by addressing issues related to poor sanitation and hygiene. Through active participation in the cleaning activities, the aim was to enhance the cleanliness and overall well-being of the community, thereby contributing to the promotion of public health and environmental sustainability.

The Third Day started with a fun and exciting yoga session. We practiced multiple different exercises to free our muscles and freshen up our bodies. After a fun and eventful yoga session, we gathered in the kitchen area to have some lovely breakfast prepared by the volunteers. Another group of volunteers were already cleaning the area and had made the space spic and span. After a wonderful breakfast, everyone had a short break to go and freshen up and get ready for an important event in the village. By 10:30 AM we reached the village. Today's activity was to clean the village and the school's surroundings. The volunteers then had been divided into 3 groups; each group given a different location for cleaning. After completing the activities, we headed back to our camp location for lunch. Volunteers rested for a while as they were exhausted.

After having evening snacks, there was one surprise for all the volunteers which was team team-building activity. For that activity, we were divided into groups of 5-6 and had to name the group on any of the social workers about whom we had to give brief information. We had our Program Officers as our judges for this activity. After that, we had to perform a skit on the topic which was given by our judges. Later we had our Dinner and after that, the Program officers provided a brief session where volunteers shared experiences, feedback, and daily reports.

The third day was worth spending time working towards the cleanliness of the village site area. We worked with all our hearts on the third day to make the camp a success be it in terms of cleaning or cooking and tried getting habitual to the village with a touch of village essence overall made a good experience for all the volunteers.
