The street play was performed by enthusiastic NSS volunteers. The event was attended by the program in charge, students, faculty members, and special guests, including officers from the Government Railway Police (GRP) Mumbai, who graced the occasion as the chief guests and were formally welcomed by our NSS unit. The event commenced at 1:45 PM with an opening address by the NSS Council President, Ratan Singh, emphasizing the significance of addressing societal issues through creative and engaging means. The play artfully portrayed Arnab's transformation from a promising student to a victim of substance abuse, highlighting the challenges he faced and the impact on his family, friends, and society at large. The play's narrative was interspersed with moments of introspection, emotional turmoil, and eventual realization, all of which left a profound impact on the audience.

Following the compelling street play, the GRP Mumbai officers addressed the audience, commending the NSS Council for their efforts in addressing such a critical issue. They stressed the importance of collaborative efforts between educational institutions and law enforcement agencies to combat drug-related challenges.
